BARBER HELD SECOND TIME

BURLINGTON JUNCTION BANKER ARRESTED AT SHENANDOAH, IA.

A NEW CHARGE FILED

Former Cashier Now Is Accused of Forgery—His Wife With Him at Time of Arrest.

Under instructions from Sheriff Lowell B. Campbell, Robert N. Barber, cashier of the defunct Northwestern Bank at Burlington Junction, again was placed under arrest at the Wabash station at Shenandoah, Ia., about 9 o'clock this morning. Barber is wanted here on a new charge of forging the name of Miles Fast of Burlington Junction to a note for $2,000.

Barber, accompanied by his wife, went to the Wabash station about 9 o'clock this morning and the former banker purchased a ticket for Mrs. Barber, who was to have taken Wabash passenger train No. 12 to Burlington Junction. It was said that Mrs. Barber had been with her husband since Saturday. They were said to have arrived in Shenandoah on a Burlington train from Red Oak this morning.

Barber was kept during the day in the fire station, near the city jail, in Shenandoah.

Harve England, deputy sheriff, was sent to Shenandoah this morning as soon as Sheriff Campbell received word that the Shenandoah authorities had Barber in their custody. England left on a west bound Wabash freight train about 9:30 o'clock this morning and will arrive in Shenandoah about 2 or 3 o'clock this afternoon. He will bring Barber to Maryville on Wabash passenger train No. 14 tonight.

Barber was picked up at the Shenandoah station by E. E. Eisner, deputy sheriff, and J. P. Garrett, city marshal of Shenandoah. Eisner sent word at once to Sheriff Campbell.

The new information filed against Barber by George Pat Wright, prosecuting attorney, is in two counts, one charging the forgery of the note and one for the possession and custody of the alleged forged note.

The information states that the purported forged note was made March 1, 1926, and was for six months. On the back of the note was "Pay to Frank Potts. Northwestern Bank, R. N. Barber, Cashier."

This is the second charge to be filed against Barber since the closing of the Northwestern Bank at Burlington Junction on May 25. The first charge was that he embezzled and converted to his own use bank funds amounting to $9,357. It was made out in five counts. Barber was arrested on this charge on the night of June 3 and bail was furnished for $4,000, the sureties being Edward E. Hackett, Rolla H. Rees, Frank Nicholas, and Judge Charles E. Walker.

Barber has been away from his home at Burlington Junction for the last week, spending some time at Bigelow, Mo., Lenox, Ia., where he has a brother, Clarinda, Red Oak, Shenandoah and other places.

The doors of the bank were opened last Monday and since that time there have been many rumors about missing papers, notes and government bonds. Last week's Burlington Junction Post contained the following:

"No official report has been made public, but it is well understood that the bank's affairs are in bad shape and that the shortage will run much more than was at first thought possible. The total shortage will not be known until after four months have passed, which is the limit set for filing claims against the bank."

Jimmy Montgomery Is Injured in Wringer

Hands and Arms Badly Mashed and Cut in Electric Machine at Home About 9:45 o'Clock This Morning.

Jimmy, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Montgomery, suffered painful injuries about 9:45 o'clock this morning when both of his arms became caught in an electric ringer, at the Montgomery home on West Third street. Mrs. Montgomery had been using the wringer and had gone outdoors to hang up some clothes. In some way, Jimmy's hands caught in the wringer and his arms were drawn into the machine up to the elbow.

Although the arms and hands were badly mashed, cut and burned, it is believed that no bones were broken and that the injuries will heal properly.

Loses Right Arm in Explosion of Tank

Dell Livengood of Clearmont Is In Serious Condition At St. Francis Hospital Here Following Accident.

Dell Livengood of Clearmont is in a serious condition at St. Francis Hospital today as the result of an explosion in a shed in the rear of his restaurant about 6 o'clock Saturday night.

Mr. Livengood lost his right arm when a tank in which he was generating carbonated water exploded. The roof of the shed was also blown off, scattering debris in every direction. The arm was blown off just below the shoulder and Mr. Livengood lost considerable blood before arriving at the hospital here about 7 o'clock.

It is said that there was no pressure gauge on the tank and that Mr. Livengood was preparing to turn off the gas when the explosion occurred.

Physicians were summoned immediately after the accident and Mr. Livengood was rushed to the hospital here where he was given medical attention.

MITCHELL HITS SUNDAY SHOWS

SAYS PEOPLE OF MARYVILLE WILL OPPOSE THEM.

IS AN EVOLUTIONIST

Methodist Minister Doesn't Believe in Darwinism, However—Disagrees With News Story.

That the people of Maryville would vote down the idea of Sunday theatres in this city was the belief advanced to his congregation yesterday morning by the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, pastor of the M. E. Church, South.

"I'm not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but I prophesy that when the new theatre in Maryville is completed that the people of this town will be called on to express themselves on this matter of Sunday theatres. And I'm as confident as can be that they will turn the matter down cold," Mr. Mitchell said.

The sermon yesterday was one of a series on the Lord's Prayer. The subject was "Reverence."

In speaking of keeping the Sabbath holy, Mr. Mitchell said, "I take issue with the spirit of the article printed in the Democrat-Forum and Tribune several weeks ago, credited to D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

"The spirit of that article is the general spirit of mankind, I believe. I refer to the comparison made between Clarinda and Shenandoah, in which it was said that Clarinda closes up everything on Sunday and Shenandoah has a number of Sabbath Day amusements.

"Mankind is too prone to want to lower Sunday to the level of the other six days rather than to elevate the week days to the Sunday standard.

"Christ took holy things and illustrated them with ordinary things, but he didn't bring the holy down to the ordinary.

'You can't bring the Bible down to the level of ordinary literature. You've got to bring literature up to the Bible cal standard. Some critics handle the Bible as a junk pile, hunting for something they think worth-while."

Mr. Mitchell dipped into evolution in his sermon when he said, "Jesus Christ was an evolutionist and so am I. I don't believe in the Darwinian theory, but I am an evolutionist nevertheless.

"God created man in his own image, and if God did that and he is holy, then if you follow the Darwinian theory, man is nothing more than a beast. But if we follow the teachings of Christ, who was an evolutionist, we'll take a man in his most sinful state and he will be elevated or evoluted to communion with the Master."

Lewis Wilcox Held on Larceny Charge

An information charging petit larceny was filed against Lewis Wilcox today by Prosecuting Attorney George Pat Wright. He is alleged to have stolen on January 28, an automobile tire and inner tube, two wrenches, a screw driver, and a box of cold patches, all the property of I. V. Moore and valued at $15.

Wilcox was picked up by Gabe Purcell at Conception Junction yesterday. With Wilcox was Cleo Rush, who will be 17 years old Saturday. Rush was released today temporarily on account of his age.

CATHOLICS TO PAY HOMAGE

EYES OF ALL TO BE ON CHICAGO NEXT WEEK.

THE RITES EXPLAINED

Local Priest Tells Meaning of 28th International Eucharistic Congress.

In common with others in all parts of the world, the eyes of local Catholics will be turned next week to Chicago, when the twenty-eighth international Eucharistic Congress will open. It will be attended by both Rev. Fr. Richard Felix, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and the Rev. Fr. Henry F. Niemann, pastor of St. Patrick's, and probably by a number of laymen.

At the request of the Democrat-Forum and Tribune, the Reverend Father Felix wrote the following explanation of the congress:

As the time of the Twenty-Eighth International Eucharistic congress draws near, many of our fellow citizens are justly curious concerning the nature, significance and purpose of this religious assembly. To some even the title-word "Eucharistic" is strange and mysterious. It seems timely, therefore, to set forth, not in a spirit of controversy or religious propaganda, but by way of simple explanation, just what the Eucharistic congress is, and what it means to the adherents of the Catholic faith.

The word "Eucharistic" is the name given to the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ. It is applied both to the act of the priest in pronouncing over the bread and wine the words which Christ spoke at the last Supper and also to the form of consecrated bread as it is reserved on the altar to be adored and received by the faithful. The act of consecrating the bread and wine with its accompanying prayers is generally called the mass; the consecrated form of bread as kept on the altar for adoration is usually termed the Blessed Sacrament; the act of receiving the Blessed Sacrament as spiritual food for the soul is commonly referred to as Holy Communion. But all three are the Eucharist under different aspects.

What Catholics Believe.

It is only by understanding what the Catholic believes the Eucharist to be that one can possibly realize the extraordinary spiritual significance of the meeting to be held in Chicago next week. The Catholic believes that when Christ, the night before He suffered and died, took bread and blessed and broke and gave it to His apostles, saying, "Take ye and eat, this is My Body," when in like manner He took the chalice with wine in it and blessed it and gave it to those at the table with the words: "Drink ye, all of this, for this is My Blood of the New Testament which shall be shed for many unto the remission of sins," He then and there by the exercise of His divine power converted the bread and wine into His own Body and Blood, and that moreover, when He added "Do this in commemoration of me," He conferred the same power which He Himself had just exercised on those present and through them on all ordained priests in His Church to the end of time.

The Catholic believes with firm faith and unshaken conviction that the bread and wine over which the priest utters the words of consecration become, without losing the outward semblance of bread and wine, the actual Body and Blood of Christ; that they are to be adored and respected precisely as Jesus Christ is adored and reverenced on the great white throne in Heaven.

The Center of Catholic Worship.

This belief in the "Real Presence" as it is called, is the very heart and center of Catholic worship. It has been the unvarying belief of millions upon millions for twenty centuries. For almost two thousand years the words of Christ have been repeated by the priest over the elements of bread and wine as he stood daily before the altar. They were repeated this morning in every Catholic Church in this state, in the United States, in Canada and Mexico and South America. And as the sunrise follows the dawn around the world, they are repeated throughout the four and twenty hours of the day in the far off islands of the Pacific, in Japan, in China, in

New York, June 14.—Rose Conco, an orphan, found a wallet with $2,500 in it and when she located the owner, Andrew Ragone, she refused a $300 reward.

"That is the sort of a girl I want," said Ragone.

They were married and started their honeymoon today.

BIBLE SCHOOL SIZE DOUBLE

ENROLLMENT HAS GROWN FROM 46 FIRST DAY TO 80.

A FLAG DAY PROGRAM

Daily Vacation Pupils Pay Tribute to National Colors—Craft Work Keeps Them Busy.

Enrollment in Maryville's Daily Vacation Bible School has nearly doubled in the two weeks since the sixth annual course opened. Beginning with 46, the school has grown steadily until this morning there was an enrollment of 80, and 73 of these pupils were present today.

The enrollment still is somewhat smaller than last year, when there were 104 pupils. It is not too late for children to enroll yet, the instructors announced.

Sometime this week a visit will be paid to the school by members of the Chamber of Commerce. Visitors are welcome at any time.

Flag Day exercises were held this morning at the closing period of the school. William Person and Ford Bradley were flag bearers, and William Garrett explained the significance of the national colors. The qualities which it represents then were set forth by the following girls:

Freedom, Margaret Knox.
Union, Ruby Lucile Watt.
Equality, Maxine Butler.
Humanity, Marie Davis.
Service, Olive Bush.
Education, Helen Elizabeth Kerr.
Righteousness, Gladys Childress.
World Brotherhood, Mildred Sorrie.

The vacation school is a place both busy and happy these days. The kindergarten children are employed with songs, games, making of paper cutouts and other simple occupations, while the girls of the primary department are making scrapbooks and learning to sew and embroider. Last week they finished dressing some dolls in attractive paper dresses and hats and also embroidered a number of wash cloths for St. Francis Hospital. Some of the embroidery work done in this department would do credit to girls much older.

The older girls are doing reed basket work and making plaques. The boys spend much of their time in the manual training department, making bird houses, bookcases, lattice work and any other articles needed at home.

Other periods are given over to Bible study and memory work.

The complete enrollment now follows:

Kindergarten department: Darrell Branson, Beverly Miller, Janice Gray, Doris Swinford, Barbara Gray, Pearl Branson, Mary Margaret Phares, Robert Curfman, Alice Lauber, Verlin Powers, Beverly Carpenter, Leroy Wilson, Leah Heltzel, Betty Hosmer, Zylpha Kessler, Irene Heideman, Mary Ford, Barbara Leet, Betty Arnett, Estella Hartman, Eugene Wray, Marjorie Wray, A. T. Estes, jr., Mabel Simpich, Loren Pierpoint, Charles Strong, and Winston Wells.

Primary: Mary Goff, Erma Walker, Belva Warner, Lucy Lee Piveral, Marjorie Curnutt, Mary Piveral, Mildred Selecman, Paul Person, Eleanor Hartness, Beatrice Leeson, Billy Case, Jimmie Wells, Mary Swinford, Charles Vance, Thana Wilson, Willard Ford, Lucy Brumbaugh, Marie George, Geraldine Wagner, Jean Carpenter, and Hope Wray.

Intermediate: Mildred Sorrie, Helen Kerr, Ruby Watt, Olive Bush, Marie Davis, Maxine Butler, Gladys Childress, Ford Bradley, Margaret Knox, William Garrett, William Person, Ruth B. Branson and Helena Sloop.

GENERAL RAIN OVER COUNTY

PRECIPITATION IN MARYVILLE IS 2.51 INCHES.

LIGHT DAMAGE FELT

Two Persons Stunned as Result of Lightning—River Was Bank Full This Morning.

A rain measuring 2.51 inches fell in Maryville and vicinity yesterday, sending the One Hundred and Two River up seven feet in eleven hours and bringing the water up to the sixteen-feet mark.

The river, at the city pumping station, raised four inches between 8 and 9:30 o'clock last night. At 8:30 o'clock this morning, the river was at a standstill.

The main showers were late yesterday morning and shortly before 7 o'clock last night. According to J. R. Brink, official weather observer, one and a half inches of rain fell between 11:15 and 11:45 o'clock yesterday morning.

About four hundred feet of railroad track were washed out on the Burlington about three miles north of Pickering. The evening train due in Maryville at 8:25 o'clock got only to Pickering and did not get out of there until 8:27 o'clock this morning. The track has been repaired, according to W. E. Goforth, local agent for the Burlington. At Arkoe, the overflow waters were within a foot of the Burlington tracks and a further rise would put the water over the rails.

The morning Burlington train from Creston due here at 7:52 a. m., arrived at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The noon Burlington train from St. Joseph was on time.

Mrs. G. W. Lauber was stunned by lightning while preparing dinner at the Maryville Country Club yesterday. A bolt of lightning came down the chimney and while Mrs. Lauber was taking some food off the stove, she received the shock. However, she had recovered within a short time.

Miss Marguerite Sturm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sturm, was also stunned by lightning when a bolt struck and destroyed the chimney at the home of her parents, 708 East First street, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

About sixteen poles owned by the Maryville Electric Light & Power Co., were blown down two miles south of Maryville yesterday afternoon. Employes of the company worked until about midnight getting the poles back in place. Service was reported as normal today.

A cyclone struck the E. C. Culp farm, five and a half miles east of Skidmore about 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The farm is occupied by L. D. Hardy and family. The barn, smokehouse, and chicken house were blown down, the porch was blown off the house, and shingles were scattered in all directions by the wind.

Timber in the path of the twister was blown down.

The rain, which was beneficial to grain crops as well as pastures, was general over the county. Hail stones fell in the eastern part of the county Saturday night and did some damage to the growing crops. Hail was also reported at Bedison and cut up garden patches in that vicinity. The wind and driving rain did some damage, it is reported.

At Pickering, sand owned by the C. H. Atkinson Paving Co., was washed away and other damage was done. A heavy rain was reported in that vicinity; some basements were flooded and several windows blown out.

Women of Country Club Lunch Thursday

The women of the Maryville Country Club will give their bi-monthly 1 o'clock luncheon Thursday, June 17. The affair will be the second of a series which has been arranged for club members and their out-of-town guests during the summer season. The committee in charge is planning to make it an all-day affair.

Golf and croquet will be offered as entertainment for those who care to play during the morning or members may bring their needlework or books and enjoy the morning in the "comfy" rockers on the spacious porch. The afternoon will be spent in various games, members being allowed to plan their own amusement. The luncheon will be served promptly at 1 o'clock.

Ten Killed in Blast Today in Gary, Ind.

Injured Number 100.—All Ambulances At Work.— All But Relief Workers Excluded.

Gary, Ind., June 14.—Ten persons are known to have been killed and more than a hundred injured, many seriously, in a terrific explosion in the coke plant of the Illinois Steel Co. here today.

The blast shook the entire city and threw the residents into a near panic. Every available ambulance was rushed to the scene and police and fire department vehicles also were used to convey the injured, some of them in a dying condition, to the hospitals.

Verification of the number of killed and injured was difficult because of the exclusion of all but first aid workers from the scene which is inclosed by a steel fence.

TEN DEAD IN STORM AREA

MIDDLE WEST DRENCHED AND WIND SWEPT.

CROP DAMAGE HEAVY

Rains Are General Over Central States —Loss To Ripening Wheat Reported Extensive.

Ten persons are dead and thousands of dollars worth of property damage has been done in the Middle West following a series of violent rain storms ending early today.

Five persons were drowned in Texas, storms ended the lives of three in Iowa and two are dead in Illinois. In the Chicago area the rainfall amounted to more than two inches.

No relief and perhaps even more damaging storms were forecast for tonight and tomorrow by the United States weather bureau.

Light rains were general in Illinois and most of the Middle Western states. In Chicago, hundreds of homes and basements were flooded and many families forced to vacate their residences.

Crops throughout the storm country have been damaged. In Kansas, Oklahoma and western Missouri, the damage done to ripening wheat was reported as extensive.

Kansas City, June 14.—Wind, rain and electrical storms throughout Kansas, Oklahoma and western Missouri last night did damage estimated at thousands of dollars in loss to ripening grain, according to reports reaching here today from points where the harvest was beginning.

At Neodesha, Kan. rain and wind caused considerable damage and three persons were reported to have been seriously injured.

At Brookfield, Mo., more than four inches of rain fell last night, swelling streams and causing damage to crops. Rain and wind storms were general over the Middle West.

Another Convict Gets Away From Mo. Prison

Hobart Hartsow Escapes By Sawing Way From Building And Scaling 20-Foot Wall.

efferson City, une 14.—The escape of Hobart Hartsow, 23-year-old convict from Jasper County, was discovered by prison guards here today when they found his cell empty.

The escaped man was received at the prison in March, 1924 to serve twenty years for stealing automobiles.

Elks to Have Flag Day Program Tonight

Public Is Invited to Attend Exercises, at Which Rev. R. E. Musgrave Will Be Speaker.

Flag day will be observed by the B. P. O. Elks at their club house this evening at 7:30 o'clock when appropriate exercises will be held. The address will be given by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the Christian Church of this city. The public is cordially invited to attend the exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Griffey of Clearmont announce the birth of a son yesterday.

BRAZIL HANDS IN RESIGNATION

FORMALLY WITHDRAWS FROM LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

HAD QUIT THE COUNCIL

Hopes Seen That New Brazilian Council, Taking Hold in November, Will Seek Readmission.

Geneva, June 14.—The Brazilian government today announced its formal withdrawal from the League of Nations in a telegraphic message to the League secretariat.

By this step, Brazil completed the action begun last week when Senor Mello Franco, Brazilian delegate to the League, resigned from the Council. Brazil has now severed all relations with the League. The resignation was a direct result of the controversy for seats in the Council, the South American government insisting upon a permanent seat in the face of opposition by all the other delegates, with the exception of Spain.

The other delegates, it was pointed out by observers, are determined to keep their pledge made at Locarno to give Germany a permanent seat in the League.

The action of Brazil did not come as a great surprise. It was considered as virtually unavoidable after the resignation of Mello Franco.

Some hope was seen in the fact that a new Brazilian government would take hold in November, whenafter, it is confidently hoped, that Brazil will seek readmission to the League.

Warrants Sworn Out for Theater Owners

Kansas City, Kan., Wars On Sunday Movies And Ministers And Movie Men Clash Over Opening.

Kansas City, Kan., June 14.—Warrants for the arrest of six motion picture theater owners for the violation of an ancient ordinance against any labor on Sunday other than absolutely necessary were sworn out here yesterday following the open house yesterday.

The action is backed by the ministers of this city in answer to the gauntlet the picture show owners threw down last week when they threatened to eliminate paid church choirs and organists under this law and force Quaker meetings if the ministers proceeded with their campaigns.

Foreign Monopolies of Essentials Checked

United States Has Succeeded in Breaking Back of Control, According to High Government Official.

Washington, June 14.—In eight months of economic warfare, the American government has broken foreign monopolies of important raw materials essential to the industries of this country, government officials claimed today.

Although not ready to make a formal announcement, a high government official declared that the menace of monopolies, such as British rubber, Brazilian coffee and Chilean nitrate virtually have been removed from American industries.

"A result of this movement, launched last October by Secretary of Commerce Hoover should serve as a solemn warning to foreign governments that efforts to restrain the movement of raw material through artificial means will meet with immediate and effective action on the part of the United States," the official said.

"These monopolies simply create an incentive for the production of substitutes or turn the world markets to other sources of supply. The British rubber monopoly has resulted in a decrease of at least 20 per cent in the amount of crude rubber produced on British soil, according to official information. In 1922, 70 to 75 per cent of the world's rubber was of British origin. As a result of this monopoly, their production has been cut to 30 per cent."

Weather

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

TIME TO CALL A HALT

By the time the investigation into the Pennsylvania state primary expenditures has been completed, Mr. Newberry of Michigan will be compelled to admit that he was a piker among pikers. Mr. Newberry, it will be remembered, spent about $175,000 to secure his election as a senator from the State of Michigan and created a national scandal thereby. He barely missed being thrown out of the senate because of the publicity but, was finally permitted by one vote to be classed as a legitimate member and later resigned.

Now comes three candidates for the senate from the State of Pennsylvania who make Newberry look like a lead nickel with a hole in it. All three are millionaires and one, Senator Pepper, was backed by the administration in general and the secretary of the treasury and his faction in particular. Governor Pinchot's management spent $195,000 in his interest it develops and felt that they were not really getting into the game. The Pepper crowd spent $1,046,000 and lost. Just what Vare, the successful candidate spent, or what was spent for him, is not yet apparent. The investigation has only gotten fairly started and has not reached him yet but it is already established that the newspaper reporter who declared that from a million and a half to two million dollars were spent in the campaign, knew whereof he spoke.

On the basis of public sentiment aroused during the discussion of the Newberry case, not one of these gentlemen can be seated if elected. They have violated the law governing campaign expenditures apparently and they have violated all rules of decency in their appeal for votes. And these are the men we are electing to make laws for ordinary citizens to observe. They are the men who complain at the general disregard and disrespect for law and laws. As the makers and preservers of the law, they are the men to whom the general public must look for example.

These are the sort of men who condemn bolshevism and yet such conduct as they admit is the greatest producer of bolshevism in this country today. The privilege of the ballot is no longer sacred but a thing commercialized and corrupted and abused until good citizenship withers and decays. It is high time that the people demand the privilege of casting a clean and uncontrolled ballot in this country and the election of men who are willing to honor the laws and the constitution they are sworn to uphold and preserve. If money is to be the ruling god in this country, democracy is doomed.

Price of Auto Tires Is Expected to Drop

Reduction of Crude Rubber Quotations at Boston and New York Where Bulk of Supply Received.

Washington, June 14.—Motorists are expected to get relief from the high cost of automobile tires before the end of summer.

The commerce department was advised of another drop in the price of crude rubber at Boston and New York where 90 per cent of the American supply is received.

Receding from the maximum of 80 cents per pound since the British restriction became effective, the price averaged 55 cents during May, compared with 36 cents a year ago. The first sizeable decrease came in February when the average was 63 cents.

Approximately 30,000 tons of crude rubber were imported last month costing $36,930,000. This compares with 32,865 tons at the maximum figure of $58,733,370 imported last February.

Stewart's WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—"That was a terrible break you made at the Bruce-Mellon wedding," one of his fellow congressmen remarked the other day to Representative John Philip Hill of Baltimore.

"W-w-what b-b-break?" stammered Hill, turning pale.

"You had on the wrong kind of collar and tie to go with a cutaway coat," his friend informed him.

"I did not," cried the Marylander hotly. "I had on exactly the right kind."

* * *

The other produced a newspaper clipping.

It was a picture of Hill, in elegantly cut morning coat, high standing collar, with turnover corners, a black string tie, and, of course, all the accessories.

"What's the matter with that?" the portrait's original demanded.

The friend produced another clipping.

t was a picture of David K. Este Bruce, the bridegroom, in tail coat, turndown double collar and a light four-in-hand.

At this point Representative Cooper of Wisconsin passed.

Cooper has worn a cutaway for nobody knows how many years.

The debaters stopped him and took a look.

He had on Hill's kind of a collar and Bruce's kind of tie.

But Little Hopes for Civil Service Bill

Would Regulate Retirement Age and Pensions for Government Workers —Conference At Deadlock.

Washington, June 14.—Legislation to liberalize the pension system for civil service federal employes retired because of age and service stands little chance of being passed at this session of Congress, despite the fact that both houses have passed bills to carry this reform into effect.

The Senate and House conferees attempting to work out a compromise between the two widely different bills today were reported deadlocked, with little chances of either side receding enough to report a plan acceptable to both.

"The house bill, and administration measure proposed by budget director Lord, would increase the maximum pension from $720 to $1,000 a year, and decrease the retirement age from 70 to 65 years for mechanics, but leave it at 70 for clerical workers. The amount to be deducted from the worker's pay to go toward providing this annuity would be 3½ per cent of his check, instead of 2½ per cent as now.

The Stanfield bill passed by the senate sets the retirement age at 65 for all, provides annuities of $1,200, and provides for a 4 per cent payment by the worker. The members of the committee which is trying to reach an agreement are Senators Stanfield, Republican, Oregon; McKellar, Dem., Tenn., and Couzens, Rep., Mich., and Reps. Lehlbach, Rep. N. J., Smith, Rep., Idaho, and Cellar, Dem., N. Y. The conferees have not yet reported back to their respective houses on their difficulties.

10,000 Rotarians in Denver for Meeting

Thirty-Five Countries Represented in Opening Of International Convention of Organization Today.

Denver, June 14.—Ten thousand Rotarians, from thirty-five countries, were here today for the opening of the International Convention.

An address of welcome was delivered by Ralph B. Mayo, President of the Denver Rotary Club and the response was made by Charles Rhodes, of Auckland, N. Z. The assemblage was then convened by Donald A. Adams, of the Rotary International.

The rotarians, delegates to the convention, represent 125,000 members of Rotary club in the world. Twenty-five hundred cities have delegates at the convention.

Delegates from cities and countries were to meet in separate conference this afternoon to prepare for their individual programs. The delegates from the various countries plan to hold meetings of their own, to be climaxed with a banquet, some time during the convention.

Late arrivals were met at the Union station today with a band and "fined", according to a Rotary custom of keeping their members from being tardy.

Tuesday the official program will get under way. The first speech will be made by Arthur H. Sapp, first vice-president, on "How Rapidly Shall Rotary Be Expanded?"

The largest delegation from a foreign country will come from Great Britain. There are 220 club in England and delegates from each club are expected to attend. There are also numerous clubs in English provinces and Great Britain's delegation is expected to be exceeded only by the clubs of the United States.

The large number of delegates coming has made it impractical, in the belief of officials, to have a roster and for the first time delegates will not be registered.

White House Repairs to Mean New Quarters

President Coolidge Not At All Pleased Over Prospect of Moving Into Temporary Headquarters.

Washington, June 14. — President Coolidge is not at all pleased over the prospect of moving into a temporary White House while the executive mansion is being prepared next spring.

He characterized the move as a "very painful operation." The president deferred the remodeling until the last possible moment and only gave his consent when engineers informed him that the White House was in a dangerous condition.

When first told of the cracking of the trusses and beams of the house by army engineers the president treated the matter lightly.

"The army has a habit of tearing down a house to repair a chimney," he is said to have commented.

But when a member of congress, a former contractor, made an inspection of the house and confirmed the army report the president agreed it was time to consider repairs.

The remodeling will take from six to ten months and the president wishes the work to begin when the short session of congress adjourns next March. Mr. Coolidge wishes to establish the temporary White House near the permanent establishment and it is likely he will take over a floor of the Willard hotel, where he lived while vice-president, and where an improvised executive office was arranged in the period between President Harding's death and Mr. Coolidge's occupation of the White House.

Old English Triumphs Celebrated Tomorrow

Aldershot, England, June 14.—The reenactment of the Battle of Hastings, the charge of the Light Brigade at the Battle of Waterloo and the Battle of Agincourt are the main features of the annual searchlight tableaux opening here tomorrow for a four day run.

The principal players in the revival of these three important dramas in English history are the several thousand members of the local Army station. For months the usually khakied soldiers have been training their horses in the use of the heavy ancient armour worn in these battles. The forest—hedge bowl, which will be used for the stage echoed today, for the first time in centuries, with the clash of steel.

To add realism to the scene specially constructed arrows have been found for the crossbows and longbows used by the combatants.

Business Turnover Is Greater Than Last Year

Check Payments, Loans and Sale of Stocks and Bonds Show Increase, Commerce Department Reports.

Washington, June 14.—Business turnover is greater today than the peak of last year at this season, commerce department reports showed.

Reports for the first week of June show that check payments, loans and sale of stocks and bonds as well as merchandise gained over last year.

New building contracts continue to be let, it was stated, while business failures were less numerous than during the last week of May or the first week of June a year ago.

Wholesale prices continue to decline, it was reported, a drop of three per cent having been recorded compared with 1925.

Work and Profits

Through the First Stock Purchasing Plan, 15,325 employes became joint owners of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), sharing in the profits of the Company.

Under this plan, initiated five years ago and just completed, the Company added 50 cents to every dollar paid in by the employes toward the purchase of the Company's stock.

This liberal arrangement met with enthusiastic response. By the careful thrift it encouraged, the employes were able to save $11,800,000 to invest in Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stock.

Recently they received stock to the value of $25,350,000, representing, in addition to their subscriptions, the stock added by the Company under the terms of the plan, plus the ordinary dividends.

Thus five years of installment paying on stock of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) brought employes of the Company an appreciation of $13,550,000.

The only stockholder receiving a larger share of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) profits is a philanthropic organization—the Rockefeller Foundation—established "to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

The Rockefeller Foundation receives 5.4% of the total dividends, while the employes receive 4.2%.

The fact that the employes of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) receive the second largest share of its profits is highly appropriate.

The work of the loyal employes of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is of a kind deserving generous encouragement, worthy of reward.

They work energetically, secure in the knowledge that their efforts will be appreciated.

They work enthusiastically, certain of friendly co-operation and helpful encouragement from the management.

They work harmoniously together, conscious of the high creed of service which binds them into a single united force. The work of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) employes is of a kind that cannot be commanded or forced, it must be inspired by such deeply human things as loyalty and faith and true devotion. It must be sustained by a simple delight in doing things well.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) owes its success to work of this calibre, carried on in every phase of its activity by a vast army of loyal men and women—the employes.

The profits received by employes, who also are stockholders, represent an incidental reward for the kind of work that is done for the joy of the doing—the kind of work that is responsible for the service the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to render the thirty million people of the Middle West.

Mrs. Bert Colwell of Twin Falls, Idaho, and Miss Catherine Slosson of Newkirk, Okla., were in the receiving line with the three hostesses. Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. Jesse Douglas of Los Angeles, Cal., Mrs. Samuel Reep of Minneapolis, Minn., Mrs. J. E. Williams of Flagler, Colo., Mrs. J. R. Miller of Wynona, Okla., Mrs. Charles Koock of Oregon, Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Colby, Kan., and Mrs. Bess Wallace of Kansas City. The games were played at twenty tables, the prizes being awarded to Mrs. C. D. Koch for high score and to Mrs. Ralph Wray of Burlington Junction for second high. The guest favor went to Mrs. Charles Koock. After the games, refreshments were served in the dining room, where crimson rambler roses intermingled with white formed the table decorations. The lounge was decorated with garden flowers in shades of red and white. The following group of the hostesses' friends assisted: Mrs. J. D. Richey, Mrs. T. L. Wadley, Mrs. Charles Wadley, Mrs. Eldon Irvin, Mrs. Sherman Montgomery, Mrs. Forrest Gillam, Mrs. Don Martin, Miss Mildred Shinabargar, Mrs. June Blagg, Miss Eva Margaret Frank, Miss Esther Roseberry, and Laura Phoebe Roseberry.

Boyhood Chum of Carl Magee Here

Charles E. Stilwell Is Much Interested In Manslaughter Trial of New Mexico Editor.

Charles E. Stilwell of this city is much interested in the case of Carl Magee, which goes to trial tomorrow at Las Vegas, N. M., as Stilwell and Magee were chums at Waukon, Ia., when they were boys. Mr. Magee's father was a Methodist preacher at Waukon, Ia., for four years.

Magee is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of John B. Lassetter, a state highway employee, on August 22, 1925. The shooting of Lassetter was the tragic climax to Magee's repeated attacks on features of of New Mexico's political system which he considered in need of reformation.

Oil Well Down 1,140 Feet This Afternoon

Rain Keeps Night Shift From Working, but Day Men Resume This Morning.—Prospects Declared To Be Good.

A depth of 1,140 feet had been attained this afternoon at the test well of the Quitman Oil and Gas Co., according to a telephonic report this afternoon.

Communication with the well was cut off until this afternoon by yesterday's storm in that vicinity. At noon Sunday a depth of 1,110 feet had been reached.

Because of the heavy rain, which made dirt roads impassable, the midnight drilling shift did not go on duty and the men who ended their shift at that time remained all night in the home of a neighbor. They resumed this morning and the night shift will attempt to go out at 6 o'clock tonight.

A change was made yesterday from the "rag line," the huge rope supporting the drilling bit, and steel cable was substituted.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart.
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—No funeral ever was more depressing than the session of the United States Senate immediately following receipt of the news that Senator Albert B. Cummins had been beaten for renomination by Smith W. Brookhart, out in Iowa.

Not that there wasn't a lot of secret rejoicing over the Coolidge administration's bereavement, but everybody was so sorry, personally, for Senator Cummins.

The latter accepted his political demise gamely, but all his fellow senators knew how it must have hurt him. After eighteen years as one of the biggest men in the upper house of Congress, to be shoveled under so uncere moniously

Cummins always has been very popular in the Senate, as it proved by picking him for its presiding officer during President Coolidge's fractional first term in the White House, when there was no regularly elected vice-president.

He's a kindly, considerate man and as scrupulously fair and polite toward the opposition as with those of his own party.

From both sides of the Senate chamber he was showered with words of sympathy. Members of the progressive bloc were especially warm in expressions of their personal regret at his defeat, though for them, of course, Brookhart's success was a victory.

Missouri Spends $65,000,000 in Two Years, Not Counting Bonus and Road Building Program

Disbursements of state funds given by the auditor of Missouri aggregate $90,430,238.08 for the two years 1923-1924. After deducting the issue of bonus and road bonds, and all federal aid for roads, for those years, the approximate cost of state government was $65,000,000. The disbursements in 1913-14 totaled $18,706,411.83. In 1903-04 the warrants issued amounted to $10,425,899.82.

Wealth in the state has increased 166 per cent in 20 years, while the cost of government has increased 523 per cent in the same time. During the past 20 years state governmental costs have increased 2.15 times as fast as wealth.

Many institutions in Missouri, as well as many boards, collect and spend fees without accounting for them through the state treasury.

Moneys are collected and spent in an unbusinesslike and inefficient manner without relation whatever to definite and specific needs of all departments and institutions for which the state must provide.

Missouri has reached the point where its citizens either must concentrate authority and responsibility in order to secure efficiency and economy, and thereby curtail increasing costs, or confess that our system is a failure.

Under an administrative code, which is the establishment of a limited number of departments, all functions now performed by aproximately one hundred boards, commissions and agencies of government will be facilitated, cost of government will be reduced and efficiency will be increased.

Equally as essential as organization of the administrative boards and commissions is the adoption of a budget system which would enforce economy through a thorough supervision of revenue and expenditures.

During the first two years under a budget system Pennsylvania showed a net saving of $1,964,720.85 on the five items of salaries and wages, traveling expenses, telephone and telegraph, general supplies and equipment, and printing and binding. That is a saving of 14 per cent for the same items over the previous two years without a budget.

WOMAN HEADS LOUISIANA R. R.

AND MRS. SARAH EDENBORN RUNS BUSINESS HERSELF.

KNOWS EACH EMPLOYE

Despite Fortune Of $50,000,000, She Lives In Simple Cottage, Rides Street Cars.

New Orleans, June 14.—Meet Mrs. Sarah Edenborn, only woman president of a railroad in the United States!

Mrs. Edenborn is not only the president of the Louisiana Railway & Navigation Co.—she's it's sole owner, as well.

Furthermore, she knows just about all there is to be known about its 700 miles of trackage, its big trans-Mississippi ferries, its terminal and shops and round houses. The title of president is no empty one; it means that Mrs. Edenborn is actively at the head of the railway's affairs.

The railroad, whoch runs from New Orleans through Shreveport to McKinney, Tex., was built more than a score of years ago. William Edenborn, her husband, had invented a process for making barbed wire and had accumulated a vast fortune. He built the railroad himself, without a dollar of bonds, debentures or other indebtedness, and the husband and wife had offices side by side, running the railroad together.

Asked Her To Take Job.

Not long ago he died, leaving Mrs. Edenborn his sole heir. All of the subordinate officials of the road asked Mrs. Edenborn to take the presidency. She did it—and her co-workers vow there is no more efficient railroad executive in the country.

"I ought to know the railroad business," she says modestly. "I've been working at it all my life, with my husband. I have been over every foot of the track, not once but many times."

She knows personally all of its lesser staff of workers and most of the "gangs" in the shops and on the sections. She calls them by their first names, inquires about their families and children and chattily discusses with them the road's business.

The workers say that she knows every foot of the line as well as the track inspectors and maintenance of way men know them. She knows each repair shop and engine house, its staff and its work, as well as the individual foremen and superintendents know them.

Lives Very Simply.

Despite her great wealth—her fortune is estimated at more than $50,000,000—Mrs. Edenborn lives very simply in a modest suburban cottage on the outskirts of New Orleans. She keeps house for herself, doing the greater part of her own housework and having a servant only occasionally. She rides on street cars, as she and her husband did throughout their married life.

An anecdote they tell of her shows her unassuming ways. A few years ago, before her husband died, a group of several hundred New Orleans business men were guests of Mr. Edenborn on a trip over the railroad. The party was crossing the Mississippi on one of the line's ferries when suppertime came. Down into the steaming kitchen went Mrs. Edenborn, to work for hours with two negro maids slicing chicken, ham and bread for sandwiches and loading up huge platters of food for the hungry guests.

There Are Many Interesting Facts Concerning the Flag of the U. S. A.

June 14, 1777, congress proclaimed the Stars and Stripes the official flag of the American nation. The anniversary of the proclamation is observed as Flag Day.

The American flag is among the oldest of national flags.

It was permanently planted in Alaska, at Sitka, October 18, 1867.

It was first officially saluted by a foreign government February 14, 1778.

It was first unfurled in battle on the banks of the Brandywine, September 11, 1777.

It was first carried around the world by the ship Columbia, of Salem, Mass., in 1790.

The idea of an annual celebration of American Flag Day was originated by Prof. George Balch of New York City.

The Stars and Stripes was first carried across the frontier into Germany by the American army of occupation, November 14, 1918.

The first display of the national flag at a military post was at Fort Schuyler, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y., on August 3, 1777.

"Old Glory" was first applied to the United States flag in 1831 by William Driver, a sailing captain of Salem, Mass., who died in Nashville, Tenn., in 1886.

The high school of New Bedford, Mass., was the first public school in the country to raise the American flag over the schoolhouse, which it did on May 11, 1861.

During the Revolution the flag had thirteen stars; in the War of 1812, fifteen in the Mexican War, twenty-nine; in the Civil War, thirty-five; in the Spanish-American War, forty-five and in the World War, forty-eight.

April 4, 1818, congress passed an act reducing the number of stripes in the national flag to thirteen, and increasing the number of stars to represent at all times the number of states.

The Stars and Stripes was first hoisted over a foreign stronghold June 28, 1778, when Captain Rathbone of the American sloop of war Providence captured Fort Nassau, on the Bahama Islands.

Capt. Paul Jones was the first man to display the American flag on an American vessel. This flag was made by the women of Portsmouth, N. H., for the Ranger, which was fitted out at Portsmouth for Captain Jones.

On the blue field of the United States flag there are 48 white stars. These stars are arranged in a rectangle of six horizontal rows of eight stars in a row. Each star in the field represents a particular state in the American union in the chronological order in which it was admitted. The eight stars in the first row of stars in order are: Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, South Carolina. The eight states in the second row of stars in order are: New Hampshire, Virginia, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont, Kentucky, Tennessee. The eight states in the third row of stars in order are: Ohio, Louisiana, Indiana, Mississippi, Illinois, Alabama, Maine, Missouri. The eight states in the fourth row of stars in order are: Arkansas, Michigan, Florida, Texas, Iowa, Wisconsin, California, Minnesota. The eight states in the fifth row of stars in order are: Oregon, Kansas, West Virginia, Nevada, Nebraska, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota. The eight states in the sixth row of stars in order are: Montana, Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico. Pupils in school as well as adults should be able to point to the star on the flag that represents their state in the American Union.

The BOBCAT

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Big Tim Burke, real estate operator, and known to his associates as a land pirate, discharges one of his young lieutenants called Pol Gaillard, because he is irritated by the latter's sleekness of appearance and nonchalant manner. Poll learns that his ex-boss covets a desirable piece of Long Island property owned by Professor Husted and that another land shark, Michael Cadrigan, is after the same bit of land. Cadrigan lives on the shore of Long Island sound with his stepdaughter, Veronica. His estate is across the bay from that of Professor Husted, who lives like a hermit, Veronica his only visitor. Cadrigan asks Veronica to discontinue calling on the old man, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her. Noticing a sloop anchored opposite the house, Veronica suggests to her stepfather that they call on the owner. They are invited on board and their host introduces himself as Pol Gaillard. During the conversation Pol speaks of himself as a failure, but compares his performances to those of a fighting cock, which when dazed will crowd against its adversary and shove its head under its wing for shelter.

INSTALLMENT VII.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY.

Cadrigan stared at Pol a little helplessly. "Well, that is one way of doing it," he said.

"It saves one's face,' Pol said, "because the gesture is not retrograde." He looked at Veronica with a sort of distant pensiveness. "The same is true of love——"

"Have you been a failure in that, too?" she asked.

"O, dear, yes. The last time the girl refused me was in an Italian garden. I pushed past her, went up to the palazzo where her father was sitting on the terrace drinking Lachryma Christi, and made a formal demand for the hand of his daughter. He politely refused on the ground that the family had its full quota of fools."

"Why did you go to her father?" Veronica asked.

"Because I was too rattled to find my way out through the grounds, and as he was in my path, I had to say something to him, and that was the thing that was on my mind. If you are going to run away, it's just as easy to run forward as backward, and usually safer."

"You seem to be a philosopher," said Veronica, "besides being poet, painter, soldier, business man and lover."

Cadrigan crinkled his forehead. "Who is to publish your book?"

"I have not thought of that. It's to be a series of pictures of shore homes on one page, costly like yours, and on that facing its humble—like that old farmhouse over there. At the foot of the page, or en vignette, some decorative verses to express the comparative blessings of the two."

"That sounds anything but foolish," Veronica said.

"Ah, but you haven't read the verses, Miss Cadrigan."

"Mayn't we see them?" she asked.

"Yes, if you will agree to praise them, no matter what your private opinion of them may be."

Pol ducked into the cabin to emerge with a large portfolio of water colors; opening this at random, he displayed two sketches separated by a blank sheet. One of these was a beautiful home of a Georgian architecture, its sweeping grounds and ornamental trees such as might be seen on the Thames near Maidenhead. On the other page was an old tide mill with a cottage that had no claim to beauty beyond the picturesqueness of its setting, under a big oak flanked by an orchard in bloom.

The execution was of a merit that would scarcely have attracted the interest of a connoisseur, true in values and pleasing in color, but decorative rather than soulful. It was the same sort of colored projection somewhat idealized that any of Cadrigan's leading architects might have submitted to the prospective builder of a handsome country home. Pol's work was a little broader, perhaps, and less detailed than would have been the architect's, not quite so cold, but unimpressionable, and for this reason it pleased Mr. Cadrigan intensely, as the portrait of his ship copied from a photograph might please its captain. It is doubtful if the builder would have understood or appreciated a masterly work of art.

To Veronica's artistic sense it was banal. Despite the artist's disclaimers, or perhaps because of them, she had expected something original or distinctive. Her education had instructed her in this sort of work, what might be called "popular." She knew that if the person who performed it were to make a whole sheaf of such sketches in any frequented resort, especially in one of American patronage, Bermuda or Palm Beach or Havana, he could probably sell all that he could daub off and for good enough prices depending on his personality and business methods. If he had an attractive studio and a well stocked sideboard, they would go like hot cakes—or hot dogs.

Cadrigan was frank and honest in his praise especially of his own place, to which Pol turned. It was really not bad, might get by, to use a practical Americanism. Veronica, true to her promise, murmured some complimentary terms.

"Where are the verses?" she asked.

Pol gave his sleepy smile. "You hope that they may still save the day—like a patriotic sentiment in a bum show? Please observe that I have not hoisted the flags, and I am good at flags. The verses need a little lacing, like grape juice. My object is to make the comparisons nonpartisan. One might say 'Parva sed apta mihi" about a suit of cheap clothes, then change his mind when he had been caught out in a shower and they shrank. On the other hand, castles in Spain are roomy but hard to heat. You will find the verses on the back."

Veronica turned the sheet and found written the following, which she read aloud:

THE ITALIAN RENAISSANCE PALACE.

Ruddy coiffed gracious mistress of a fair domain
Poised regally on a dais of velvet green,
Skirted in old lace with white pergola train,
Windowed eyes baffling our vision of soul within.

What of the throbbing heart beneath the costly dress?
Does its tenure in love and harmony abide?
Has the gold style inscribed on it a prayer to bless?
Or lavished on the costuming its pomp and pride?

THE COTTAGE.

A palace is a place to dwell
With room for heaven and for hell.

No?

But in the cottage you will find
That love can't very long be blind.

So——

Be careful not to start a shindy
Or love will fly right out the windy.

"There is a deal of truth in that last," said Cadrigan, "but I will not say there is more truth than poetry."

Pol looked at Veronica, who was suddenly struck by the similarity of his face with that of a Siamese cat. His muzzled was not black, nor his eyes green, but there was a striking resemblance in the set of the eyes and the upward curve of the corners of the lips. Veronica wondered if he ever opened his really wide.

"The verses about your house express what it makes me feel. Their being a bit confused doesn't matter because my sentiments about your house are not entirely clear."

"Why 'ruddy coiffed'?" Veronica asked.

"I should say that it was roofed in red tiles. I can not see the slant of it from here."

"As a matter of fact, they are green," said Cadrigan.

"Really——" Pol reached politely for the sheet and taking a gold pencil from his watchchain, drew through the 'ruddy coiffed' and wrote in its place 'jade crowned'—scanned this a moment, shook his head, then with the look of sleepy inspiration accented the "e" of the crowned.

"Jade crowned," he muttered. "I rather hate to start with swank, but then it all is that. Do you suppose the average reader would appreciate the fact that by 'gold style' I mean a stylus, a writing instrument, not gilded furniture?"

"It got past me," said Cadrigan, "but then my college education was focused on football and the mitts. But I'm taken with your idea of likening such a house to a fine lady."

"Thank you. It has always seemed to me that there is a great deal of gender about houses. For instance, a Tudor castellated house with battlements and morions is distinctly masculine, while a well proportioned farm house of ample breadth is a matronly as a brooding hen. Of course, the doggerel about the cottage does not apply to this big barrack over on the shore."

"How would you describe that?" Veronica asked.

"Harshly and without hyperbole. It has a shabby but sinister look, like the small town miser. It seems as if almost any sort of sordid shocking tragedy might happen there——" he looked dreamily at Cadrigan——"or has happened there."

NEWS FROM MISSOURI CITIES AND TOWNS

Cape Girardeau—A $750,000 building program is under way here, comprising three new school buildings, a church, new manufacturing plants, additions to others, and a number of high-type residences.

Louisiana—A new parking and traffic ordinance has been placed in effect here. Cars must park parallel to the curb and three feet from the next one. Speed is limited to 15 miles an hour.

St. Louis—The high standing of this city as a school center is reflected in the fact that about 9,000 students were graduated from various schools. Of this number 5,000 were from the public schools.

Richmond—The Richmond Manufacturers' Association made a successful two-day automobile trade tour of towns in Ray and Carroll counties. There were 23 cars and about 100 persons in the caravan.

Chillicothe—The City Council voted to raise taxes 10 cents this year. The city hall building interest fund and an extra 2 cents for interest on school building represent the increase.

Independence—A 5-cent reduction in taxes payable this year was voted by the City Council here. The new levy totals 95 cents on the $100 valuation.

Warrenton—A donation of $10,000 cash and property valued at $2,000 to be used as part of a new building fund for Central Wesleyan College here was received from a member of the school board.

Rich Hill—In addition to considering plans for a chicken hatchery, the Rich Hill Commercial Club is debating a move to bring a cheese factory and a creamery here.

Springfield—The Ozark Playground Association has received many inquiries about Missouri as the result of its advertising. In one week there were 1740 letters asking for information.

Bowling Green—A contract has been let here for the drilling of two wells for supplying water to the city.

Farmington—A St. Louis company has been awarded a contract for the building of the St. Francois courthouse here.

Washington—Negotiations have been instituted by the Chamber of Commerce to have an electrical manufacturing plant locate here.

Excelsior Springs—An election will be held here June 22 to vote on a proposed $80,500 bond issue for civic improvements.

Rolla—The Phelps County Fair will be held on the Fair Grounds here September 22, 23 and 24.

Fredericktown—An effort is to be made to have the 23 miles of road between Farmington and Ironton made a part of State Highway No. 68.

Butler—The Commercial Club has made provisions for taking individual exhibits to the State Fair this year from exhibitors here.

Bloomfield—The Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a dairy meeting and field demonstration to be held here June 16 and 17.

Fulton—Because of the presence of rabies among dogs, a mayoralty proclamation has been issued requiring muzzling of the animals.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with the nauseating fishy taste because the McCoy Laboratories of New York, are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, Gaugh & Evans and every druggist sells them—60 tablets 60 cents. Any woman or man can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your druggist is authorized to refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—Feeble, old people feel younger in a few weeks.

OVER-EXERTION CAUSES PHYSICAL HARM

Soft Frame Muscles and the Heart Should not Be Overtaxed or the Stomach Harmed by Dubious Food or Drink.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Summer is here. Vacation time has arrived. Everybody is making plans for the greatest possible degree of pleasure before Labor Day ushers in a new year of hard work.

A vacation may be a good thing or a bad one. It all depends on how it is used. To a great extent its value depends on how it is begun.

Perhaps you were born on a farm, as I was. You wandered away to the city, but the smell of the clover gets into your nostrils. It makes you homesick for the old home. You rush back and find all hands at the haying or the harvest.

Forgetting that a year or two or five in the city has been a period long enough to weaken your muscles and heart, you go into the fields. Too proud to admit you are soft and unprepared for the work which used to be so easy, you tire your weakened muscles and perhaps seriously strain your heart. You keep at it for fear you will be laughed at by your country relatives.

This experience will do you such harm that it may be months before you are returned to normal condition. I beg of you to avoid this bad beginning of the Summer vacation.

Perhaps you enjoy an occassional game of tennis. The vacation period may tempt you to give over the first day to this attractive sport. In the broiling sun, regardless of fatigue and other handicaps, you keep at it for hours.

The next day your skin is swollen and inflamed. Your muscles are painful. You have a violent headache and a sensitive heart. It will take a week or more of your precious vacation to recover from the effects of the first few hours.

Other vacationists will fill their stomachs with ice cream, cold drinks, rich food and other things, desirable in moderate quantities, but harmful to those who overindulge. In consequence, if you do this, illness may be thrust upon you and several days of the vacation will be spent in bed.

Perhaps you will camp out or take an automobile tour. If you do either make sure you drink no contaminated milk or water. Wayside springs may be dangerous. Uninspected milk supplies may be unhealthful.

If you are in doubt about the food never eat it unless it has been cooked thoroughly. Cooking will destroy the germs of disease.

If you prize my advice you will give heed to the things you do and what you eat and drink. It is wise to exercise this care every day, but certainly it is a mark of real wisdom to bear these things in mind when you plan and take a vacation. If you will do this your playtime will be well spent.

Answers To Health Queries.

M. V. Q.—What would you advise for a child of four who wakes up after being asleep for two hours or so and cries bitterly? Nothing seems to quiet her.

A.—This may be due to some intestinal condition. Be sure that her intestinal tract is kept clear and watch her diet very carefully. Do not allow her to eat before going to bed.

M. S. Q.—What do you advise for a drowsy feeling after luncheon? I do not eat heavily.

A.—Autointoxication is probably the cause of the symptom you describe. Watch your diet and be sure that the intestional tract is kept clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Reader. Q.—What causes a person to stutter and how may it be cured?

2.—Would diseased tonsils be responsible? There seems to be some obstruction in my throat which prevents proper speech.

A.—This is usually due to a nervous condition. Diseased tonsils would not be directly responsible, although they might cause a certain amount of nervousness, due to the poison seeping into the system from them. Have your doctor examine you and in this way definite treatment may be advised. An elocution teacher will probably help to correct the symptom to a great extent.

M. J. B. Q.—Can tuberculosis of the stomach glands, resulting from internal injuries, be entirely cured by operation? If it has extended to the lungs in a mild form as a result of overwork and a run-down condition, can it be cured by rest? Would a wife be liable to catch it and will possible children be liable to inherit it?

A.—In some instances, depending upon the extent and seriousness of the condition. Rest and proper care will bring about very satisfactory results in many cases. If germs are found in the sputum, there is a possibility of spreading the trouble. Possible children may have a tendency to the trouble although it is not inherited.

Unveiling of Statue of Lord Kitchener Recalls Unsolved Mystery of World War

Lon, June 14.—A simple undecorated statute of Field Marshal the Earl Kitchener of Khartoum, whose fate may forever remain one of the mysteries of the World War, was unveiled in the Horse Guards Parade here today by the Prince of Wales.

The bare inscription, "Kitchener, 1850-1916, Erected by Parliament," under the seven and one-half foot khakied figure in the uniform of a British Army Field Marshal, tells all that is now known of the unhappy ending of one of the most brilliant military careers in the history of the world.

The British secret service and the entire military intelligence of the Government have, for more than ten years, carried on an untiring search of every corner of the globe in an attempt to determine the truth about Kitchener's disappearance. Every possible clue which might shed some light on the mystery has been run down in the relentless investigation.

Reports, accepted as the most authoritative available, state that Kitchener was last seen talking with the Captain of the British Cruiser Hampshire, while the ship was being abandoned off the Orkney Islands in the North Sea early on the morning of June 5, 1916. It is believed that the vessel struck a floating mine, but this point has never been definitely determined.

The ship's officers who had already taken to the boats quickly realized the absence of the Commander-in-Chief of the British Army and an immediate wild cry of "Where is Lord Kitchener?" was set up, but no reply came to the boats drifting farther into the darkness from the sinking Hampshire. One sailor reported that he had seen Kitchener talking with the commander of the ship, while others declared that Kitchener was seen talking to a lifeboat. A smashed lifeboat, containing the body of a man who was said to have left the ship with Kitchener, was subsequently washed ashore, but no evidence that Kitchener had been in the boat was found.

Frequent stories from all parts of Europe filter from time to time into the hands of authorities here telling of people who declare they have seen Kitchener in some remote spot, or that an insane man, resembling the lost commander-in-chief, has been seen in one of the capitals of Europe. Investigations of these reports, however, has proven that the person thought to be Kitchener was some other, or the supposedly insane man can no longer be found in the vicinity.

Whether Kitchener went down with the sinking ship, or whether he may still be alive in some part of the world, will probably remain one of the unsolved mysteries of the War.

Pilot Killed

Elmer Partridge, pilot, was killed when the plane inaugurating the Chicago-Minneapolis airmail service crashed near St. Paul. He is believed to have fainted and lost control of his ship, which was a new one of his own design.

THIS WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY

Compiled by
The State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary
June 13-19

When the State of Missouri erected, out of public funds, a monument at Keytesville in honor of General Sterling Price, it was a tribute to his official record, lovable personality, and integrity of character. No man had stood higher in Missouri. He had sat in the legislature and in Congress. He had risen to the rank of brigadier-general in the Mexican War. He had been commissioned a major-general in the Confederate army. And he had held the office of governor of Missouri.

The unveiling of this monument by his granddaughter, Miss Hazel Price, on June 17, 1916, was the culmination of the movement started several years before in Keytesville. In the beginning, the women of Keytesville determined to purchase a plot of ground to serve as a memorial park, and due principally to the efforst of Mrs. William C. Gaston, Mrs. Wallace Agee, and Miss Jane Anderson this was accomplished. After the ground was purchased it was turned over to a board of trustees and the city took the responsibility of its upkeep.

The next step was that of the purchase of a monument. In this the assistance of Representative John D. Taylor was enlisted. He presented in the House of Representatives a bill for an appropriation of $5,000 for the erection of a monument in Price Park and the bill was aproved March 27, 1911. Major J. D. Ingram, of Nevada, Mrs. Bondurant Hughes and Mr. M. W. Anderson, both of Keytesville, were appointed to serve on the committee in charge of the plan. The expenses of the committee were later provided for by an additional appropriation of $2,000.

The monument is an impressive memento. The shaft is of marble, with bronze plates on each of the four sides; on these are presented the salient facts of General Price's life. The plate on the north bears the following inscription: "General Sterling Price, Born in Prince Edward County, Virginia, September 11, 1809. Resided in Chariton County, Missouri, 1831-1865. Speaker of the House of Representatives of Missouri General Assembly 1840-1844. Elected to Congress 1844. Participated in War with Mexico, 1846-1848, rising from rank of colonel to that of Brigadier-General. Chairman of Convention of 1861. Major General in command of Missouri State Troops 1861-1862. Died in St. Louis, Missouri, September 29, 1867." One the south side: "General Sterling Price, 1809-1867." On the east side: "Major General C. S. A. 1862-1865." On the west side. "Governor Missouri, 1853-1857." The figure surmounting the shaft is of bronze and is eight feet high, representing the General standing with his hat in his hand and addressing his men.

The celebration accompanying the unveiling of this monument was one of great importance to Keytesville. A parade was composed of a detatchment of Confederate veterans from Higginsville, the local unit of the United Confederate Veterans, and a detatchment of artillery from the Missouri National Guard. Some of the veterans who marched in the parade were the fed survivors of Price's army. The loyalty which once urged them on in battle now gave them added strength to join in this tribute to their former leader.

As a military leader Major-General Sterling Price exerted greater influence on the fortunes of war than on the field of battle. His influence expressed itself in two significant channels. He brought thousands of Missourians into the Confederate army. He caused thousands of Union soldiers to be diverted to Missouri when they were badly needed in other states. He easily ranks first in service to the Confederacy among many eminent Missourians. In the early part of the war he took part in two well-known Missouri battles—Wilson's Creek and Lexington. At the latter he received the affectionate title of "Old Pap," and throughout the remainder of the war he retained this sobriquet. His command "forward, Missourians" was heard on many fields, and was a constant encouragement to his men. The best known of his Missouri exploits was "Price's Raid" of 1864. Believing firmly that Missouri could be won for the Confederate cause he determined to march across the state and subdue the Union forces. His route was by way of Greenville, Pilot Knob, Jefferson City, Boonville and Glasgow. His defeat at the battle of Westport marked the failure of the plan.

Following the end of the war he went to Cordova, Mexico, where he obtained a grant of land from Emperor Maximilian and commenced the colonization of ex-confederate soldiers on it. When this government fell he lost his land, and returned to Missouri. He settled in St. Louis, and lived there until September 29, 1867, when he died of cholera.

Recently a special Missouri committee was appointed to nominate five distinguished Missouri leaders in the service of the Confederacy, whose figures are to be carved on the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial, near Atlanta, Georgia. Without hesitancy Major-General Price was chosen as the first of these, thus reaffirming the earlier choice made by those loyal workers of Chariton County.

FARM GLIMPSES

BY BILLY TILSON.

Ed Rickard and family near Parnell were visiting in Maryville Saturday. Mr. Rickard reports farming conditions looking about the average over that way.

Bern Eckles and Robert Kyle, south of Graham, were transacting business in Maryville Saturday. They say the corn is looking fair and if they could get a good rain a rapid change would be made. If the rain hit in that part of the county it will be a great relief We have been in other parts of the county where rain was badly needed.

William Kluth, east of Burlington Junction, says the farmers of that vicinity got in a good week's work in the fields. Rain is badly needed in those parts.

Most of the first cutting of alfalfa was put in the mow last week and the rain will give it a good start for the second cutting, the first cutting being light in most places. The rain will be too late to make timothy hay which was pretty short. From our visits over the county we can't agree with the agricultural report on wheat and hay in this county. We think they have the percent a little too high.

M. A. Keller and Homer Lawrence, northwest of Barnard, motored to Maryville Saturday evening with their families, the men being too busy in the fields to take time to come in the daytime. Mr. Lawrence reports a good growing crop of corn. Mr. Keller says he has a fine field of fall wheat and with rain a good yield will be assured.

Colonel J. B. Judd south of Sweet Home finished plowing his fine field of corn the second time last week. The cultivator was being pulled by a big pair of black horses weighing around 1800 pounds and the Colonel understands how to manipulate the cultivator to get a good job of plowing done. He says while this has been a backward spring and weather conditions not very favorable, that when harvest time comes he looks for a better yield than is expected at this time for a good rain with warm weather will make a wonderful change in a short time, "a splendid feeling to have."

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 14.—Grain prices closed below Saturday on the Chicago Board of Trade today, although in some cases they marked a slight rise over the opening figures. Trading was active and prices fluctuated within a range of about 2 cents throughout the day. The weather continued to be the dominating influence in the pit.

Cash prices were steady here, but were about a cent lower in Kansas City, where the new wheat crop is arriving and causing the usual hedging operations in the futures market.

The report of excellent rains over the entire wheat belt, save North Dakota, caused considerable selling and a drop in prices, but most of the dip was recovered on the publication of the decrease in the visible supply, which amounted to 2,652,000 bushels.

Corn was under pressure throughout the day and the closing figures were sharply below those of Saturday.

Although oats lost fractionally in all positions this pit easily maintained the strongest tone on the floor.

The heavy hog receipts at the union stockyards as well as the slump in corn prices proved bearish for provisions.

WOULD EXILE RIFF LEADER

ABD-EL-KRIM MAY BE SENT TO MADAGASCAR.

IS KNOTTY PROBLEM

Spanish Insist on Punishment While French Promised Safety in Exchange for Surrender.

Paris, June 14.—Abd-el-Krim, vanquished leader of the Riffs, probably will be exiled to Madagascar, it was reported here today at the opening of the Franco-Spanish conference on the Riffian problem.

With Krim into exile will go about forty of his followers.

The delegates will attempt to fix the Franco-Spanish frontier and will exercise a joint control over the Riffians. The disposition of Abd-el-Krim may prove a knotty problem for the Spanish are insisting that he should be delivered for punishment while the French declare they promised the former Riffian leader safety in exchange for his surrender.

French diplomats are making many overtures to appease the Spanish and it had been hoped that the decision to award the gold Cordon, the legion of honor, to the Spanish queen might alleviate the situation.

It was rather freely predicted today that it is doubtful whether an accord will be reached ready for the signature of King Alphonso when he arrives at Paris on June 24 en route for London.

French bankers are also reported to be complicating the siutation with demands that the Riffian territory be opened for French and Spanish exploitation with government monopolies.

Colorado Visitors Leave.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Redding of Denver, Colo., who have been visiting the latter's father, John Mahoney, and her sisters, Mrs. Maggie Dougan and Mrs. Jesse Ray, for three weeks, went to St. Joseph yesterday. They will visit Mrs. Redding's sister, Mrs. Ed Moran, and a niece, Miss Pauline Mahoney, there until tomorrow morning when they will leave for their home. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ray accompanied them to St. Joseph, motoring down for the day. This was Mrs. Redding's first visit home in twelve years on account of poor health. She is recuperating from a recent operation.

New Farm Relief Bill Is Introduced Today

Would Establish Government Subscription of 200 Million Dollars to Be Lent to Farmers.

Washington, June 14.—A new farm relief proposal, providing a government subscription of 200 million dollars, to be lent to farmers, either separately or co-operatively, for exporting surplus products, was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas.

With debate limitation effective at noon tomorrow, the new amendment may delay a vote on relief legislation until late this week.

Farm bloc leaders were hoping to vote on the 175-million-dollar Dawes-McNary-Haugen bill by Wednesday or Thursday. The Robinson bill would allow aggregate loans up to one billion dollars on commercial securities approved by a board of five in control of exporting crops which the act would establish.

Fate of Unknown Ship on Fire Is Mystery

Cordova, Alaska, June 14.—The fate of an unknown vessel on fire in northern Pacific waters remained a mystery today. Efforts of the naval station to communicate with the missing ship so far has been fruitless.

"Fire, fire; S. O. S., S. O. S., position 52; 35."

This faint dimming signal at 3:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon has been followed by silence.

W. T. Burton Home on West Third Is Begun

Construction of the new Kellastone house of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burton, to be erected at 317 West Third street, will begin as soon as excavating work, which was started recently, is completed. The home will be of the American type of architetture and will contain eight rooms. On the first floor will be living room, sun parlor, dining room and kitchen with a breakfast alcove and front and rear porches. Two large bedrooms, a bath, hall and sleeping porch will be on the second floor. Mr. and Mrs. Burton expect to get possession of their new home next October.

W. E. Goforth left this afternoon for Chicago, where he will visit until Thursday or Friday.

India, in Africa, and in Europe until the reawakening day in New England sees the morning repetition of the sacrifice of the Mass. It is in the unbroken continuity of this sacrifice that the Catholic sees the literal fulfilment of the prophecy of Malachy "Fro mthe rising of the sun even to the going down of the same my name is great among the Gentiles, and in every place there is sacrifice and there is offered to my name a clean oblation." (I-II).

This is the great center of Catholic belief. To fitly honor Christ personally present in the Eucharist, all Catholic peoples have poured forth their treasures of wealth, of beauty and of art, as the Kings of old laid before the Infant Savior their rich gifts of gold and frankencense and myrrh, as the repentant Magdalene broke at His sacred feet her alabaster box of precious ointment. No treasure can be too rich, no effort too great in the honor the devout Catholic pays to Christ in the Eucharist. That faith through the ages inspired the learning of an Aquinas, the literature of a Dante, the art of an Angelo, the music of a Mendeissohn, and the architecture of St. Mark's, Rheims, Westminster and Cologne.

Churches as Houses of God.

The great cathedrals of Europe which today rear aloft their pinnacled towers to heaven and awe the beholder by their mute but matchless splendor were not builded primarily to accommodate the worshippers nor even as places of prayer and praise. They were intended first of all as houses of God to provide an earthly tabernacle for the Eucharistic majesty. They were builded as a home and habitation for the God of all beauty, whom the builders worshipped on the altars within. And when that Presence is departed, when the altars are overthrown or no longer house the Sacred Host, the Catholic regards them as hollow shells of bodies from whence the spirit is fled.

Now, in the last fifty years, when steam and electricity have brought the peoples of the globe into closer communication, the same spirit of faith which showed itself in countless cathedrals has devised a new method of honoring Christ in the Eucharist, and that method is the Eucharistic Congress.

The Christ of the Scriptures was a wanderer. His boyhood was spent in the land of the Pharaohs. In His latter years He traveled incessantly through the cities and villages of Judea, Samaria and Galilee, and the people thronged about Him as He healed their ills of body and of soul. In these modern times He is making His royal progress through the great cities of the world, and the people come forth in their millions to these gatherings to honor Him and to share in His blessings.

2,000,000 Catholics to Attend.

From the 20th to the 24th of June we shall witness for the first time in this country an assembly of over two million Catholic people to do honor to Christ in the Twenty-Eighth Eucharistic Congress at Chicago. It is a pilgrimage of peoples from the four quarters of the universe, not for pleasure nor for profit bent, but to confess before men that faith in Christ personally, present in the Eucharist, which they have inherited from their forefathers through ages. It is a meeting which is purely spiritual and religious and which has about it no commercial taint. Even vendors of souvenirs will be rigorously excluded, according to a recent article in the New York Times. It will be the greatest public demonstration of faith ever witnessed by any religion. It will be the greatest concourse of Christians ever gathered in one community. All that is beautiful in art and pageantry, in a world-old liturgy, in music and in song, will be displayed to honor Him who is worshipped as King of Kings and Lord of all.
